

COMPROMISE

© C. S. Craig

So powerful is human nature that it is successful in trivializing morality - which compromises truth. If truth can be compromised then there is no truth. Morality is a requisite of existence. Without truth there can be no justice, no injustice. Without morality there is no standard except to each his own.

“Live and let live” is the philosophy of liberalism which is the philosophy of self and self is the heart of wickedness. Wickedness deceives itself by denial. “The devil made me do it,” mentality. Self sits on the throne of self or God does.
