

HOOF BEATS

© C. S. Craig

When we are young and gathering strength, the hoof beats of time seem so far in the distant future. As we age, the hoof beats of the future are rivaled by the increasing hoof beats from the past until they become one. It is then that we understand that life is a race to the finish line. Time is the inevitable winner and the future is but an echo in the past.